With conditions ideal for batting Stonor were pleased to be inserted after losing the toss. However they started poorly, losing Collings to the third ball of the match. From this moment on it was all Stonor with Nicholson typically punishing anything in the slot or short and Powell mastering the art of shot selection. Nicholson was unlucky to fall one short of a deserved half century, after a fine catch by the wicketkeeper, contributing the majority of a 68-run partnership. There was to be no let up for Soho though as Mayo and Powell then compiled a 96 run partnership to take the game away from the tourists. Powell was eventually caught on the boundary for an impressive 64. This gave Hunt the freedom to swing and after Mayo retired hurt on 50, he took the score past 200, finishing not out on 30.

Soho, too, started poorly losing their first two wickets for only 7 runs with Agar bowling tightly, but with no luck and Denton, bowling with good control, taking the glory. Scott then tried to rebuild the innings for Soho but when he fell for a brave 50 to young Sam Kimber's flight the visitors looked doomed. And so it proved with Kimber junior and senior picking up another 3 wickets between them – Sam finishing with a first senior career haul of 3 for 21. Collings and Griffiths chipped in with a couple of wickets before Denton returned to mop up the tail, finishing with the impressive figures of 4 for 8, and sealing an easy win for Stonor.
